Introduction

I am a designer currently living in Laguna Niguel California. I have 18 years of experience designing and building websites and interactive applications. A former Senior Designer at Newsday.com in NY, I have been working as a freelance designer and contractor for electricbricks.net, designing and building responsive websites. I have previously worked in a variety of different environments from corporations to boutique agencies. I have excelled at delivering award-winning projects and I enjoy the pace of creative, collaborative environments.
